Hi Dennis,

Thanks again for the conversation last week and for putting the partnerships seat in front of me. I have now read the Strategic Partnerships Manager spec properly, so here is the written case, with the one gap named up front.

The spec asks for the full lifecycle, sourcing to growth, with senior people on the other side of the table. The deal I would point to is Roche Diagnostics.

For a small IoT company with no EU channel I ran the outreach to Roche/Siemens/Beckman Coulter and negotiated an exclusive global reseller agreement, seven figures on a three-year minimum, with an $80B counterparty. It stalled in their legal and compliance process and got signed because I kept the commercial sponsors visible. That channel then produced the NHS sales and a ten-year contract with OLVG in the Netherlands.

At scale, at Brightcove, I recruited 15+ ISV and agency partners across Asia and ran the global partner programme regionally, joint business plans included. The channel grew to 35% of regional pipeline whilst the region went from ~$4M to ~$11.5M ARR, on a monthly forecast to the global CRO throughout.

To be clear - I do not have a European travel network. I have never sold into OTAs, airlines or loyalty programmes. The pattern I can point to is building a network from nothing: the EU medical channel above started with no contacts at all, and I opened Vietnam, Taiwan, Thailand and the Philippines for Brightcove the same way.

I think the first 90 days here are a target list and an outreach cadence, plus the events calendar and a first round of partner meetings. I would rather be judged on that than on an address book.

In terms of the practical side - fully remote from Valencia, contracting through a non-Spanish entity, Spanish at an intermediate level, and happy to travel for the trade shows. I also build my own GTM tooling (AI agents, CRM integrations, lead scoring etc.), so the partnership performance analysis is something I build myself rather than wait for.

So - happy to hop on a call to talk through where the EMEA pipeline should start. CV attached.

Thanks Dennis,
Ben Morrell
