Ben Morrell

Director, Go-To-Market — Enterprise B2B SaaS · UK & Europe

hello@benmorrell.co · +34 711 035 948 · +44 7796 656 897 · benmorrell.co/amber-gtm linkedin.com/in/morrellbc · Remote (Valencia, Spain, CET) · UK / Australian Citizen · Spain Digital Nomad Visa

Hello Amber team,

Thank you for the opportunity. I have opened a market from nothing for a product three times and then run the first enterprise deals myself. Taking a product that already works into a new set of buyers is the part of go-to-market roles I enjoy and can add most value.

The closest to your buyer was Campus Plus, an Australian edtech. I led their UK market entry, working the sector conferences and running a 20-part webinar series as the acquisition channel, and signed a UK university.

The longest cycle was in healthcare. For BinaryTech, a medical IoT company of only 15 people, I sourced Roche Diagnostics cold and built the business case from nothing. It became an exclusive global reseller agreement, seven figures on a three-year minimum.

Most common - it stalled inside Legal and Compliance at an $80B business. Unsticking it meant keeping Roche's commercial sponsors visible so the process carried business pressure, whilst conceding on policy at their scale and holding firm on exclusivity and the minimum commitment.

It ended up being signed. That channel went on to produce NHS sales and a ten-year contract with OLVG, a very large hospital group in Amsterdam. I think that is the nearest thing in my background to a university buying committee.

In terms of the team - at Brightcove I built and led 20+ people across sales, solutions engineering and customer success, plus channel/sales ops. Together we grew Asia from ~$4M to ~$11.5M ARR at 120%+ of quota. I also formally opened our India office and led teams in Mumbai and New Delhi.

To be clear on the gap - I have not sold to accommodation or estates teams, and I do not yet know CUBO or ASRA from the inside. The buyer is new to me, however institutional procurement and building the playbook from the first deal are not.

I am based in Valencia on UK time +1h, a UK citizen, and happy to travel across the UK, Europe and the US for the events calendar and the deals.

Happy to hop on a call to talk through any of the above.

Thanks for your time and your consideration,
Ben Morrell