Hi Lloyd,

Thanks for the level of detail in the Partner Manager, UK spec. Recruit, enable and grow SIs/ technology alliances/CCaaS partners into a partner-sourced channel for one region is a job I have done before. Here is the case, gaps included.

At Brightcove I recruited 15+ ISV and agency partners across Asia and ran the global partner programme regionally: onboarding, joint business plans, partner business reviews and co-sell with the direct team. Partner-sourced pipeline sat in Salesforce and went to the CRO monthly. The channel reached 35% of regional pipeline whilst the region grew from ~$4M to ~$11.5M ARR.

The single agreement I would point to is Roche Diagnostics. For a small IoT company with no channel I ran the recruitment and negotiated an exclusive global reseller agreement, seven figures on a three-year minimum. It got through Roche's legal and compliance process because I kept the commercial sponsors visible. That channel then produced the NHS sales and a ten-year contract with OLVG.

Why now - Omilia has just raised $67M at $60M+ ARR, has a CRO who owns channel strategy, and is opening partner seats in the UK and DACH at the same time. That is the point where a partner programme either becomes a channel or stays a logo page. Bell Integration/Sabio/TTEC Digital on the partner page tell me the UK ecosystem already has the right shape. I think the job is making it produce pipeline.

To be clear - I have not run a partner programme inside a CCaaS or conversational AI vendor. My UK network is healthcare and media (NHS, Roche, BBC, Sky, ITV) rather than banking and insurance. The nearest CX proof is Veeva, a customer-communications platform I sold across EMEA/APAC in 2024-25.

Where I am probably unusual for this seat is the technical half. I am an engineer by training and I build LLM agents and a production MCP server myself. So the technical enablement piece with Solutions Consulting is something I can run with them, not hand off.

In terms of the practical side - UK citizen with a UK company since 2019, fully remote from Valencia on UK hours, two hours from London for partner events, and engaged through a non-Spanish entity.

So - happy to hop on a call to talk through where the UK partner list should start. CV attached.

Thanks Lloyd,
Ben Morrell
