Hi Dennis,

Thank you for the opportunity to apply for the role of Strategic Partnerships Manager at Holafly. This role combines my passion for travel, technology, working in a fast and entrepreneurial environment, and working on a key part of the business as it expands. That's genuinely exciting.

The situations I have done best in are new revenue streams and new markets: four APAC countries opened at Brightcove, APAC opened for Encoding.com from a written thesis. I have worked mostly in environments where total clarity is not always attainable, working on the fly, adjusting the pitch/positioning as the deal cycle progresses. And most of all, the opportunity for success is uncapped.

I have managed a team of 20, but I have also (more recently) been an individual contributor to the success of global startups. I would aim to be a leader of a team in the mid-term but I think executing a role, learning fast, from the ground up would give me the information and experience I need to prove my leadership capability inside Holafly.

The most recent experience was for an IoT Startup company with no EU channel. I ran the outreach to huge enterprises, navigated the account, built strong relationships, demonstrated the solution, drafted agreements and subsequently negotiated an exclusive global reseller contract, seven figures on a three-year minimum, with an $80B counterparty. Through my management, that channel then produced NHS sales and a ten-year contract with OLVG in the Netherlands.

At scale, at Brightcove, I was instrumental in building 15+ ISV and agency partners across Asia. The channel grew to 35% of regional pipeline whilst the region went from ~$4M to ~$11.5M ARR. I know how to evaluate a partner and how to build the business case that gets one to commit.

To be clear - I do not have a European travel network. I have never sold into OTAs, airlines or loyalty programmes. The successful pattern I can point to is building a network from nothing. I have built partnerships and relationships in industries such as Medical, F&B, Media/Tech, E-commerce, E-Learning, from execution level all the way to C-Suite.

The value I can bring is my deep commercial and partnership experience, combined with a hunger to succeed. I believe the potential for me to execute fast at Holafly, being part of a team and collaborating to gain rapid momentum is a really good fit.

There aren't many times in a career when you get to join a company at this point on the curve. Holafly looks like a rocketship that I can have an impact with - and I want to jump on board now!

Thanks, and looking forward to talking soon,

Ben Morrell
